Poor air quality is the largest environmental risk to public health in the UK