

Within the social rented sector, local authority dwellings were more likely to have serious condensation (7%) than housing association dwellings (4%) in 2023